

This collection of twenty-five essays is published in honour of Frances Lynch in recognition of the contribution she has made to our understanding and appreciation of the past, and to her long involvement with Cambrian Archaeological Association. The essays mostly relate to Wales, Ireland and the West of England, and embrace a wide range of subjects, many of which Frances has herself written about. These include Neolithic and Bronze Age ceremonial and funerary monuments and pottery, Bronze Age goldwork and bronzes, Iron Age hillforts and decorative metalwork, burnt mounds, field systems, Roman conquest and settlement, early medieval inscribed stones, and medieval and later churches and chapels.

Reflections on the Past. Essays in honour of Frances Lynch is edited by Bill Britnell and Bob Silvester and is published by the Cambrian Archaeological Association in July 2012

Photograph of Cors y Gedol burial chamber: © Mick Sharp

Softback, 245 × 175mm, viii + 520 pages, with approx. 300 drawings and photos, some in colour, ISBN 978-0-947846-08-4. Published July 2012

I would like to order ..... copies at £20.00 + £5.00 p&p and enclose a cheque for £..... payable to Cambrian Archaeological Association

Name .....
Address .....
Postcode .....

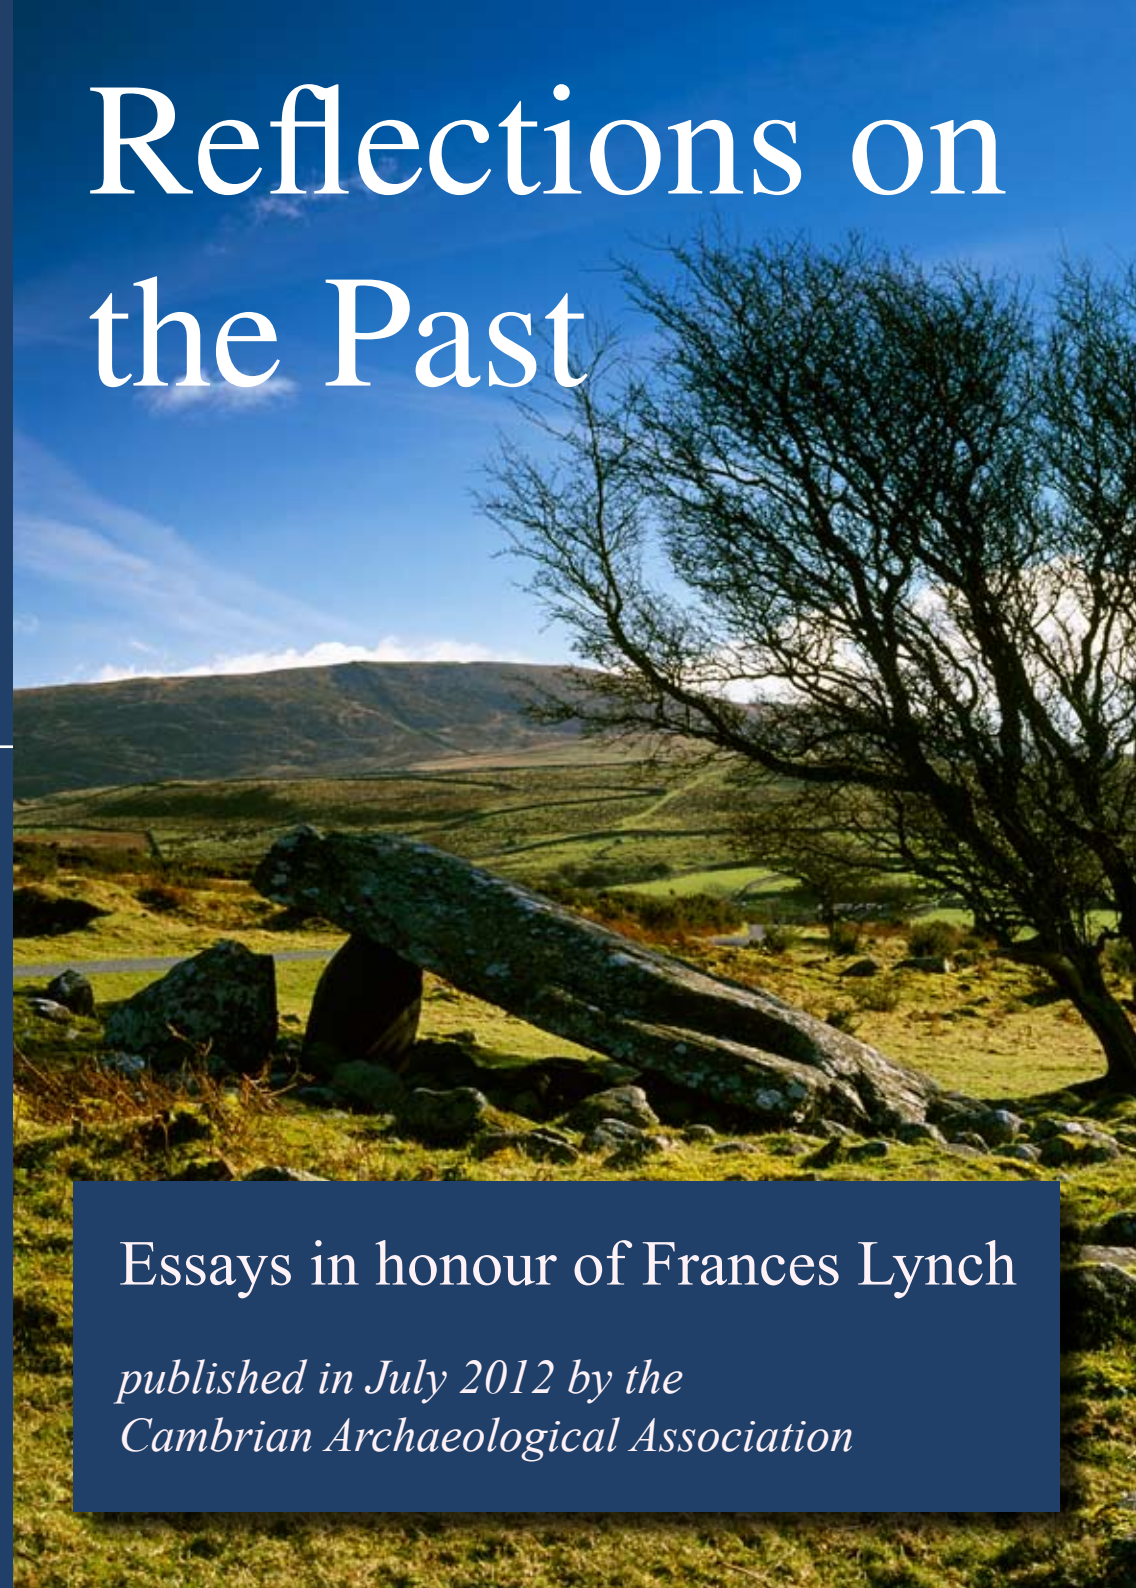

Please send with cheque to: CAA Treasurer
c/o 41 Broad Street
Welshpool
SY21 7RR

For enquires please ring: 01938 553670

Reflections on the Past

Essays in honour of Frances Lynch

published in July 2012 by the Cambrian Archaeological Association

Reflections on the Past

Essays in honour of Frances Lynch

Contents . . .

- Frances Lynch and the prehistory of Wales and the West. Richard Bradley
- Living with the dead. Mick Sharp
- Neolithic pottery fabrics from Newgrange: a petrographic contribution. John Ll. W. Williams and David Jenkins
- Containing the dead in Irish Passage Tombs. George Eogan, Elizabeth Shee Twohig and Ken Williams
- Once upon a time in the west: Neolithic enclosures in the Walton basin. William J. Britnell and Nigel W. Jones
- What's in a name? A critical review of Welsh 'henges'. Alex Gibson
- Meini Gwyr: 'a kind of circular stone-monument' and its place in the later prehistory of Wales. C. Stephen Briggs
- Trevisker Pottery: some recent studies. Henrietta Quinnell
- Going West: ceremony, barrows and cairns in the south west peninsula. Andy M. Jones
- West of Wessex but only just: round barrow construction on the Mendip Hills, Somerse. Jodie Lewis and David Mullin
- Putting capes into context: Mold at the heart of a domain. Stuart Needham
- South Welsh socketed axes and other carp's tongue conundrums. Colin Burgess
- Burnt mounds in north-west Wales: are these ubiquitous features really so dull? Jane Kenney
- Puffins amidst prehistory: re-interpreting the complex landscape of Skomer Island. Louise Barker, Oliver Davis, Toby Driver and Robert Johnston
- Craig Rhiwarth hill-fort, Montgomeryshire. Peter Crew, Graeme Guilbert and David Roe

The Tal-y-llyn plaques and the nocturnal voyage of the sun. John Waddell

Montgomeryshire hillforts and enclosures from the air. Chris Musson

Roman Anglesey: a survey and recent research. Jeffrey L. Davies

Roman continuity and reinvention: the early medieval inscribed stones of north Wales
Nancy Edwards

The Afon Alaw, the sixth-century Ty'n Rhosydd stone and Bivatusus. David Longley

Harlech Castle watergate. Andrew Davidson

The north side of the churchyard. Bob Silvester

Sir Stephen Glynne and 'The Older Churches of the Four Welsh Dioceses'. Lawrence Butler

The conservation of tranquillity: St Winefride's Well, Holywell and the old parish church of Llanfihangel Ysceifiog, Anglesey. Sian E. Rees

Victorian red-tape: notes on some ICBS grant applications from churches in the Bangor Diocese. Adam Voelcker

